

1.

Oct 23, 2022

  #6

Never Never. I said it.

Acer is totally different regency
Likewise Bali which is the polar opposite

Even in the UAE you can drink and wear a bikini but it's haram and forbidden in the neighbouring Emirate of Sharjah who's ruler Al Qassimi is friendly with Saudi
There is also no border so if you drive from Dubai to Ajman through Sharjah with your shopping and a bottle of wine inside you could go to jail

Report

 Like + Quote  Reply

2.

So a little more than 1 month ago. Not exactly that long ago. or that far in the past.

Can't really see this happening unless it is in certain areas of the country. On top of that, a number of different ministries would have to approve it before going to the president. Also, don't believe everything the media says. The only quotes I see are coming from a guy whose background is criminal law and is a deputy minister. Plus only selected groups can 'report' it. even if it were somehow to pass.

3.

Oct 23, 2022

  #5

Honestly no. It's similar argument to alcohol ban and/or removing a few 0s from the rupiah. All these things are mooted from time to time but nothing will ever come of it.

Relax

Report

 Like + Quote  Reply

4.

Dec 3, 2022

  #18

You guys worry too much. Enjoy life. It's Malam minggu.